

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Alecia Warren, MassMedia

Alecia@massmediacc.com

702-433-4331 (office) | 303-328-1694 (cell)

Solomon, Dwiggin & Freer, Ltd. Names 3 New Partners

LAS VEGAS (Feb. 18, 2015) – Solomon, Dwiggin & Freer, Ltd., a leading Nevada law firm primarily practicing in trust and estate law, announced today it has named three new partners, Steven E. Hollingworth, Brian P. Eagan and Jeffrey P. Luszeck.

Hollingworth previously served as of counsel with the firm. With Solomon Dwiggin & Freer, Ltd. for 4 years, he focuses his practice in estate, gift and tax planning and regularly advises individuals, business entities and nonprofit organizations on complex matters. His work with the firm has involved counseling international families and fiduciaries on the structure of their U.S. investments, the tax treatment of foreign trusts, and the reporting and disclosure obligations of trustees and beneficiaries.

The firm promoted Eagan from his prior role as associate with the firm. Eagan, who has been with the firm for over 9 years, primarily focuses his practice in fiduciary matters and regularly represents professional and private fiduciaries, banks, creditors and beneficiaries. He serves on the probate and trust section of the Nevada State Bar and recently sat on the committee responsible for revising the probate rules for the Eighth Judicial District Court.

Luszeck, also promoted from associate, primarily practices business, trust and estate litigation. Since joining the firm almost 7 years ago, he has represented heirs, beneficiaries, creditors and fiduciaries in numerous disputes related to trust and estate litigation. He handles legal matters including undue influence, forgery, fraud, incapacity and additional related issues.

“Solomon, Dwiggin & Freer, Ltd. strives to promote the advancement of our attorneys who demonstrate a passion for providing the highest quality of service,” said Dana Dwiggin, the firm’s Managing Partner. “As partners, Hollingworth, Eagan and Luszeck will play a valuable role in not only supporting the firm’s continued success for many years to come but also in assisting the advancement of trust and estate law in Nevada.”